

Updated 2024

Journal of Global Faultlines Guidelines for authors

The Journal of Global Faultlines is a double-blind peer-reviewed, academic journal, currently published twice a year. The journal is based in Keele University and published by Pluto Journals.

Aims and scope

The journal seeks to bring cutting-edge theoretical and critical reflection to bear on dominant and/or mainstream debates within international and global studies, and is committed to publish original theoretical debates, empirically-based investigations and policy discussions. The Journal of Global Faultlines attempts to cover the evolving current world situation by looking at global problems from a variety of different and overlapping perspectives: economic, political, philosophical, cultural, educational, geographical, social, and historical, among many others. The journal aims to provide ongoing open forums to discuss and analyse global problems and developments from critical perspectives or viewpoints, and thus improve understanding of the underlying forces shaping the destiny of the world in the 21st century. To this end the journal also encourages contributions from writers and disciplines that are not commonly associated with the study of the aforementioned academic fields of study. Contributions from scholars working around the globe are particularly welcome. The journal endorses a full peer review process, consisting of editorial selection followed by at least two anonymous peer-reviewers.

Submissions

All submissions should be between 6,000 and 12,000 words (including notes and references) and include abstracts of no more than 200 words which describes the main arguments and conclusions of the article, and a list of six key words (in Microsoft Word file format). The details of the author's institutional affiliation, full address and contact information, the exact length of the article, brief biographical description (about 40 words), and any acknowledgments should be included on a separate cover sheet. Manuscripts are sent out for anonymous review; consequently, we would encourage authors to refrain from posting their name or affiliation on any materials that may be sent out to referees (i.e., the manuscript, tables, associated graphical presentations, etc.). Each manuscript should be submitted electronically to Professor Bulent Gokay, at b.gokay@keele.ac.uk

Submission Timeline

- Upon submitting an article/commentary, author/s will receive an acknowledgement of its receipt. The article/commentary will be evaluated by the Editorial Board for its suitability for the Journal. If selected, it will be sent to two external, expert reviewers for double-blind peer review. This process may take three to four months approximately. Timelines of review process may vary depending on reviewer's availability and responsiveness.

- Reviewers may suggest major or minor revisions or reject the manuscript for publication. After Editorial Board has made a decision based on reviewers' recommendations, author/s will be informed.
- In case of major or minor revisions, reviewers' feedback will be shared with authors. Authors will be required to revise their article/commentary in the light of the feedback provided by reviewer/s .
- While resubmitting, author/s should include the revised article/ commentary in Track Mode along with a Response Letter specifying how they revised their piece in the light of reviewers' comments.
- Upon receiving the revised draft, it will be shared with reviewers to see if they are satisfied with the revisions.
- Final decision will be communicated to author/s.
- If the manuscript has been approved for publication, it will be included in the next issue. Since Journal of Global Faultlines occasionally publishes special issues, approved article may not be published in the earliest issue. Nonetheless, the author/s will be informed about the timing of the publication.

Style

Spelling should conform to the Concise Oxford English Dictionary. American spelling throughout, with “-ize” endings (not “-ise”). Quotation marks: Double in text throughout; single within single; single within indented quotations. Quoted material that is more than 50 words long should be indented, without quotes, and with a line space above and below. Dates and numbers: 9 November 1989; 1945– 46, the 1970s (not “the seventies”). Authors are responsible for ensuring that their manuscripts conform to the journal style.

Tables and Figures

Tables should be kept to a minimum and contain only essential data and should be consecutively numbered. Diagrams, charts, and graphs should be referred to as figures. Figures should have a resolution of at least 300 ppi. All images must be accompanied by express written permission from the graphic's creator.

References

In text references in author-date style, should appear in parenthesis, including page numbers where relevant – e.g. (Shain, 2016: 21) or ‘as Shain (2016: 21) argues..’. Where are two or more works by one author in the same year, they should be distinguished as 2016a, 2016b, etc. Bibliography should appear in alphabetical order. Authors should check that all works mentioned in the text are included in the references, and that dates of publication given in the text and in the references are the same.

Example of reference list

References
to books:

Gokay, B. (2012) Soviet Eastern Policy and Turkey, 1920-1991. London: Routledge.

References to chapters in edited book: Fowkes, B. (2012) “A Bibliographical Essay on the History of Communism and Communists in the Muslim World,” in B. Fowkes and B.

Gokay (eds.) Muslims and Communists in Post-Transition States. London: Routledge, 152–159.

References to edited volume:

Bhopal, K & Shain, F. (eds.) (2016) Neoliberalism and Education: Rearticulating Social Justice and Inclusion, London: Routledge.

References to articles in journals:

Gokay B. & Whitman D. (2010) “Tectonic Shifts and Systemic Faultlines: The Global Economic Crisis,” Socialism and Democracy, 24(2): 164–190.

Updated 2022

Articles on websites:

Gokay, B. & Shain, F. (2013) “The protests in Turkey: urban warfare in 'rebel cities'”, OpenDemocracy, Available at (accessed April 2016)

Copyright and permissions

The journal will be published online. Authors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyrighted material from other sources. Authors of accepted papers grant the Journal and Pluto Journals, publisher of the Journal, the Rights to publish under Creative Commons License (CC BY 4.0). Moral rights will be retained by the original Author(s) and copyright will be held by the authors. Authors will receive a Copyright Form for electronic signature upon the acceptance of the article for publication to agree to the Pluto Journals Publishing Agreement.

Page proofs

All proofs must be corrected and returned to the publisher. If the proofs are not returned within the allotted time, the editor will proofread the article and it will be printed per the editor's instructions. Only corrections of factual and typographical errors are permitted.

Publishing ethics

The journal adheres to the ethical standards endorsed by the Committee on Publication Ethics. In particular:

- We expect all authors to state in their article if they have a conflict of interest which could potentially bias their opinions - for example funding or employment.
  - All named authors on the articles should confirm that they have jointly participated in the research and writing of the article, and that no author has been omitted from the list of authors.
  - We require authors to warrant that their articles are original, have not been previously published, and do not plagiarise or otherwise copy someone else's work without attribution. (If the article is a translation, we are happy to consider this for publication, but the authors must inform the editors on submission.)
-

- We also require authors to warrant that their article does not defame, libel, or bring another person into disrepute, and neither does it contain anything illegal (e.g. copyright infringing).

Post-publication corrections

If there are errors in a published article/commentary, we will investigate and, if necessary, correct the article/ commentary (with an erratum, or (if required) retracting the article/commentary). All authors will be informed and their consent (where possible) obtained before any changes are made to the article.

Submission/Publication Charges

There are no submission fees, and no charges for publication.

